

Whereas

Whereas, Trek in the Park, over the last three years has recruited and gathered the most enthusiastic artisans, musicians, and actors to produce an annual intergalactic journey for their audience, in their own backyard; and

Whereas, Trek in the Park is more than willing to passionately, and unapologetically, express their love for the stories they tell and are proud to perform in a city where the people are just as diverse as the characters in the play (Mirror Universe included) and attempts to share the same messages of unity and understanding that Star Trek conveys; and

Whereas, Trek in the Park has broken new ground not only in theatre, but in the celebration of pop culture and made its home Portland, Oregon, an Enterprise for entertainment in the Northwest and across the country; and

Whereas, Trek in the Park encourages the people of Portland to not only look to the stars, but to also celebrate and explore the city around them and all it has to offer; and

Whereas, Trek in the Park, along with its parent, Atomic Arts, will continue to serve the fine city they call home and will energize audiences for the years to come, and wherever they go next, they will Boldly Go;

Now, therefore, I, Sam Adams, Mayor of the City of Portland, Oregon, the "City of Roses," do hereby proclaim July 2011 to be in Portland. I am, and always shall be, your friend. And I encourage you to observe this month as you see fit.

Star Trek (in the Park) Month

Live Long, and Prosper.
